

Sri Lankan Burghers

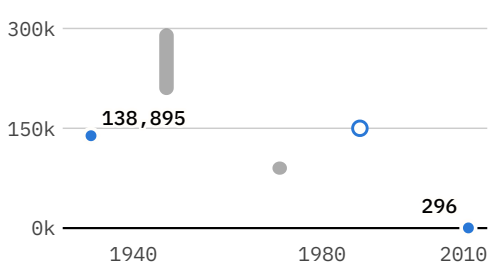

census count, thousands; Burghers and Eurasians rise to 1953, then a slow fall as families left

Anglo-Indians

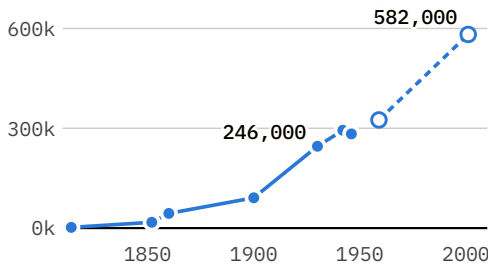

persons; filled dots are censuses, bars and the open dot estimates the census count falls to 296 while community estimates stay in six figures

Indos, Dutch East Indies persons; solid: Europeans in the colony; open: Indo-Dutch worldwide, a new definition the count moves from the colony to the diaspora after 1946

Cape Coloured

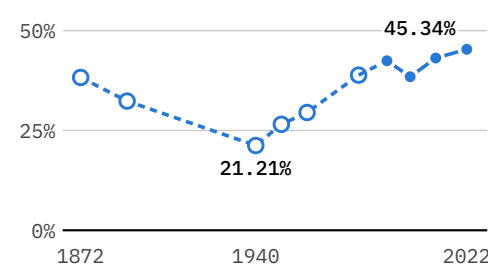

share of the population, consistent boundaries; open dots computed from counts the share barely moves across 118 years and three regimes

Brazilian pardos share of the population; open dots before 1991 from a secondary compilation a predicted extinction that became the largest category

Canadian Metis

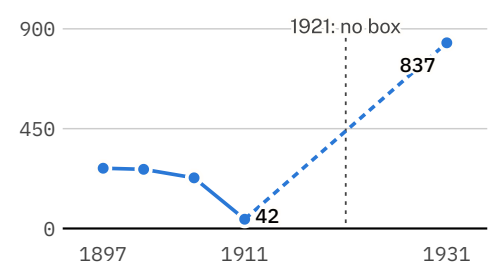

census count of people who identify as Metis tripled in 25 years, mostly by people re-identifying

Hong Kong Eurasians

people who reported themselves Eurasian in the colony census a count of who was willing to tick the box, not of the group